My first term experience

In Redemption College, I experience many things and I learn many things. The first day I entered the school, everything was strange to me because I didn't know anybody except my colleagues, the other Najude scholarship holders. I entered the class room and sat down but everything was still strange to me, most especially the other students of the school. But the school is very good and the environment is clean and attractive. Surprisingly, before one week had passed, I started to interact with the other students and the teachers and before long my English grammar and my speaking skills had improved a lot. I became used to speak English in my mouth. The only thing that is disturbing me is that in my mother tongue Hausa, some letters are pronounced differently (such as b, f, p and v). But I always try to practice and learn how to pronounce and differentiate them.

The teaching in my school is very good and interesting because of the well educated and trained teachers, who are hard working and friendly. Another thing that gives me joy is that we learn how to respect the elders and how to live with other people around us. The school doesn't tolerate any bad behaviour or stubborn students, so everyone is well behaved. This is my experience at Redemption College. Thank you.
